

1

Questions

1. What is the mathematical significance of the number 1 in multiplication?

- A. It is a complex number.
- B. It is a neutral element.
- C. It is a prime factor.
- D. It is an even number.

2. Why is the number 1 considered unique in the set of natural numbers?

- A. It is both positive and negative.
- B. It is the only rational number.
- C. It is neither a prime nor composite number.
- D. It is both even and odd.